

I have just posted a short article, in Dutch, about the breakdown of the 'creative class compromise' in Amsterdam. The polemic piece points at the growing isolation of autonomous practices in (legalized) squats and theatres, in favor of a creative industries policy that favors middle class young professionals. It was written for the Amsterdam Index 2007.