

This morning I finished an email interview with yet another Italian newspaper, this time Sole 24 Ore. Vito Lops sent me a long list of questions and I answered a good 2/3 of them. The material is timely and covers topics such as the rising influence of venture capital in the Web 2.0 domain, the growing national realms of the Web and a possible synthesis in network theory, or let's say dialogue between those from sociology, mathematics and new media theory.