

Today I received the final version of an email interview I did with Anja Wollenberg a couple of months ago. Anja is part of a German NGO that supports Iraqi radio journalists. We had to wait until the two German engineers, who were kidnapped in Iraq, were released. A strange policy but anyway... that's the NGO reality. Even small media organizations like Niqash (also known as Streamminister, run by Berlin-based cultural entrepreneur Klaas Genewinkel) have to subordinate the Will of the Ministry.
