

Cyrill De Graeve of the French magazine chronic'art sent me five questions. I tried to answer them as good as I could, given the time restrictions, in the midst of the last preparations of the videovortex event that starts tomorrow, here in Amsterdam. You can find this next in a series of 'speed interviews' here on my pages. She wrote me: "I'm contacting you because chronic'art is making a special report on "Netocracy", the book by Alexander Bard & Jan Soderqvist that will be published in France in February. "I'm sure you know Netocracy - and I think you are, in some ways, a real netocrat."